

British Nature Guide

This Dragonfly is called a Common Darter

Males are red and females are yellow. They have two big eyes to see their prey and whiskers on their chins.

They are very fast flyers, they hunt over water and eat flying insects. They have four transparent wings, which means you can see through them. They have six legs.

